FLEXIBLE TRANSPORTATION OPTIONS THAT WORK FOR YOU

I-way is a growing statewide network that connects people to an exciting mix of transportation options, giving Idaho an economic and quality-of-life advantage, while helping keep our state clean and beautiful. Through local coordination and partnerships, I-way connects rural and urban communities and protects our way of life, allowing for more efficient and convenient transportation options throughout the state.

Learn more about I-way, and see how you can get involved.

Use I-way.org to access information on different ways to get to where you need to go like:

- Idaho RideShare is a great resource for people to share the ride and save money in the process.
- Google Transit allows you to map your route and identifies public
LOCAL VALUES AND PRIORITIES

YOU are the key to improving mobility in Idaho. You know best what your community needs are or how to improve mobility for people traveling to and living in your community. Join your neighbors and community leaders to determine the future of mobility in your neighborhood.

The core philosophy of I-way is local planning, coordination, and decision-making. I-way brings together local citizens, providers, leadership and agencies to better plan for and build future partnerships, improve efficiencies and effectiveness, and create a dynamic multi-modal system that will connect virtually every corner of Idaho.

Local citizens are determining the best way to get around in their unique communities - based on community needs and values. Strategies outlined in local mobility plans identify everything from improved sidewalks and bike paths to increased bus routes and the building of transportation centers.

RIDING IN IDAHO

Idaho provides a number of bicycling opportunities - whether you are a trail rider, bicycle commuter or simply enjoying a ride with the family on the weekend - you should know what resources are out there and how to ride safely.

Travel Conditions

Idaho's 511 Travel site includes a comprehensive summary of road conditions along state highways and provides real-time transit route information for those of you riding your bike to connect to public transportation.

Route Planning Resources

Selecting an appropriate route for traveling by bicycle and/or walking is a personal decision related to expertise, comfort, capabilities, etc. The following tools are available to help you find your preferred route.

State Highway Bicycle Route Suitability Map

This map provides critical information on Idaho's highways such as shoulder width, traffic levels, steep grades, and more.

Scenic Byways website

This site highlights useful information on the many scenic byways Idaho has to offer, including information on lodging and restaurants.

Google Maps

This tool provides detailed maps and directions for navigating Idaho's biking trails and routes.
